Solving British Labor Problems

London. — With the feature of direct action by the triple alliance in following a strike removed, and the prospect of a speedy resumption of work in the Yorkshire coalfields, the labor situation is distinctly improved. The miners of the United Miners, the Labor representatives in the cabinet, the labor situation gradually is becoming more normal and the nation is to be congratulated in having gone thus far along the labor road. The miners' strike, it is added, was down to half the figure of last May, and the workers generally were showing a desire to avoid extreme and illegal measures to obtain their desires. Premier Lloyd George, who has been most pleased with the way things are going, and his promised statement to parliament, defining the government's trade policy, is being awaited with great interest.

Taking Some Action In U.S.

Grocer Fined $500 For Selling Sugar At 15 Cents Per Pound.

Washington. — Important new developments in the government's fight to reduce the high cost of living have been made public.

One of the most interesting was the announcement by Attorney-General Palmer that the first federal conviction for profiteering had been obtained. District Attorney Lucy told yesterday that a grocer of $500 for selling sugar at 15 cents a pound was to go forward this week on an army transport.

The amount of material ordered to Siberia was not disclosed but was said to be "very large" and to include motor vehicles and medical supplies as well as rifles and tank tracks.

The original consignment was materially increased after the recent reverse of Kolchak's army, it was said.

It is asserted that Lloyd George will undertake that the admiralty like the war office shall make sweeping changes in its estimates.

The minister of labor announced that a proposal is being considered in the interest of the general community for the introduction of legislation making strikers and lockouts illegal unless one week's notice in writing is given to enable an inquiry into the situation causing discord and an attempt its settlement.

This program, it is said, will be strongly resisted by a large portion of the laborers.

The Yorkshire miners are not all willing to resume work. Ten thousand miners in the district voted against returning work, and it is said that in other districts the miners have not yet reached a decision as to whether they will return to their labor.

Curb Profiteering In Britain

To Aid Admiral Kolchak

Material Is Being Rushed To Vladivostok By The United States.

Washington. — Material aid for Admiral Kolchak's retreating army is being rushed to Vladivostok by the United States. It was said officially, that 45,000 rifles and several million rounds of ammunition already had been sent from San Francisco and additional consignment would go forward this week on an army transport.

The amount of material ordered to Siberia was not disclosed but was said to be "very large" and to include motor vehicles and medical supplies as well as rifles and tank tracks.

The original consignment was materially increased after the recent reverse of Kolchak's army, it was said.

Feeding 20,000 Children.

Paris. — The American relief agency began the task of feeding 20,000 children in Central Europe as part of its plan to give food to the children of Central Europe, it was announced. "It was said this did not involve a general relaxation of the blockade," said the spokesman.

A Vienna department store from London announced the Allies had lifted the blockade against Hungary, but there has been no formal announcement of this by the supreme council.

Farmers Give Opinion Before Wheat Board

Winnipeg. — The Canadian wheat board says it hopes to have a meeting to make public the plans and regulations for the handling of the 1919 wheat crop some time this week.

"In the meantime," the board says in a circular, "we are awaiting the outcome of congress' draft of an amendment to the Food Control Act extending its provisions to clothing and containers of foods and feeds, and providing penalties of $500 fine or two years' imprisonment or both for violation of the law."

Use Secret Service.

Washington. — President Wilson has asked congress for authority to use the secret service in running down profiteers and food hoarders.

and marketing of the 1919 grain crop in Canada, as well as that of the general public.

Other outstanding features of the meeting were:

An emphatic demand from the chairman that initial prices had been declared that such a price had not been considered.

A resolution from grain growers of the West Coast, strongly supporting the demand that the seasons as impracticable and unsound economics and demanding that if the government is determined to handle the 1919 wheat crop that the same price as last year be given.

Another announcement says that it is intended to prosecute Bela Kun, his associates for murder, robbery and forgery.

To Combat High Cost Of Living.

Winnipeg. — Coercion action by all military and labor organizations in a field for reduction of the cost of living was demanded in a letter from the Order of Railways Conductors, division 604, considered at a meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans' association executive.

The suggestion was unanimously adopted and a committee was appointed to co-operate.

Prince's Visit To U.S. Is Uncertain.

Ottawa. — The meeting is known as yet at capital city, when Prince of Wales is likely to visit the United States or the duration of his stay in that country. No decision will be reached later, but it is certain that the prince, prince of Wales, will be here.

"We are facing a short crop," he said. "If the $12.50 per ton price ruling, we may find the crop returns still shorter. Strikes are popular and the farmers are not prepared to stand on the horns of a dilemma.

The board was packed to the doors with the representatives of various interests including millers, bakers, consumers, farmers, grain dealers and hoteliers, Mr. J. W. Stewart, chairman of the board, presided. The meeting was called for the purpose of vacating the will of those interested in the handling

Allied Success In North Russia

Good News of Contest With the Bolsheviks on Russian Front.

London. — Six Bolshevik battalions, including the famous successful Anglo-Russian attack on the Dvina river on August 10, the war office has announced. More than 1,000 prisoners, 12 field guns and many machine guns were captured. The Bolshevik front on the Dvina was pushed forward 12 miles. The official statement reads:

"In North Russia, Anglo-Russian troops, on August 10, repulsed the Bolsheviks on the Dvina with great success. All the objectives were gained. Six enemy battalions were destroyed, the troops being either killed or captured. More than 1,000 prisoners, 12 field guns and many machine guns were captured. Our line on the Dvina was advanced 12 miles to Thadovia and Buruk."

British Ambassador to U.S.

Viscount Grey Has Accepted the New Post Temporarily.

London. — Viscount Grey, former British secretary of state for foreign affairs, has agreed to take the British embassy at Washington, pending the appointment of a permanent ambassador.

Viscount Grey of Fallodon, (Sir Edward Grey) of the royal United Kingdom, was to represent the British government after a brilliant career as head of the British foreign office. For eleven years, momentous in the political affairs of Europe, he was Sir Edward Grey, that caused the gathering of the world to disperse. It was he who organized the last effort to prevent the great European war when he urged the ambassadors of the leading powers to meet in London to discuss the situation in an attempt to off hand peace.

"Does the award of six cents above express the feelings of the jury as to the case?" a reporter asked Mr. Grey.

"It just about does. That expresses our judgment."

Attorney Alfred J. Murphy, for Mr. Ford, said: "The important issue in the case has been determined favorably to the plaintiff. He has been vindicated."

"Money damages were entirely subordinate and were not sought by Mr. Ford. He stands not vindicated but vindicated."

Since his retirement from the foreign office Viscount Grey has been living in retirement in Northumbria land. The new an虎assaded eyes began to trouble him in 1918 and at one time it was reported he was blind. But, the viscount has difficulty in reading, although his eye trouble has improved somewhat.

General Currie Is Defended

Officer Says Criticism for Canadian Losses Was Unjustifiable Not Warranted.

Kingston, Ont. — Speaking at the banquet tendered to the visiting delegates to the convention of Union of Canadian Municipalities, General Sir Arthur Currie, the new commandant of the Royal Military College, valued the services of the men who took Hill 50," said he was present when Sir Douglas Haig told General Currie to take Passchendaele, and the Canadians took it, and the Germans fled.

General Currie is defended by the Canadian Press.

Service Was As Noble As Were the Tastes and Habits of the Men in Life.

Lenox, Mass. — The funeral of Andrew Carnegie was held at Shore Brook, his summer home in the Berkshires. There was a large crowd, but there were no pall bearers.

The service was as simple as were the tastes and habits of the man in life. One half of the sixty persons present were members of the household. The others were relatives of the deceased.

Referring to the Canadian casualties, the speaker said, according to figures recently published, the Canadian army suffered the loss of approximately 100,000 men and made the highest percentage of gains.

Another speaker was Major Harry Lethbridge, who declared for a middle course on the liquor question, neither too wet nor too dry.

Ferdinand's Millions

Seizure of Securities Will Not Affect the Es-Monarchs.

Genoa. — The seizure in England of securities belonging to former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, valued at $2,000,000, will not altogether ruin the ex-monarch, according to reliable information obtained here.

It is said that Ferdinand toward the end of 1914 took the position of placing his fortune abroad, mostly in Swiss banks, and that he had no securities left in England.

A resolution from grain growers of the West Coast, strongly supporting the demand that the seasons as impracticable and unsound economics and demanding that if the government is determined to handle the 1919 wheat crop that the same price as last year be given.

Another announcement says that it is intended to prosecute Bela Kun, his associates for murder, robbery and forgery.

To Prosecute Bela Kun.

Copenhagen. — The Danish public prosecutor has issued an announcement that the $12.50 per ton price ruling, which he declared that such a price had not been considered.

"Does the award of six cents above express the feelings of the jury as to the case?" a reporter asked Mr. Grey.

"It just about does. That expresses our judgment."

Attorney Alfred J. Murphy, for Mr. Ford, said: "The important issue in the case has been determined favorably to the plaintiff. He has been vindicated."

"Money damages were entirely subordinate and were not sought by Mr. Ford. He stands not vindicated but vindicated."

Since his retirement from the foreign office Viscount Grey has been living in retirement in Northumbria land.

The new an虎assaded eyes began to trouble him in 1918 and at one time it was reported he was blind.

Service Was As Noble As Were the Tastes and Habits of the Men in Life.

Lenox, Mass. — The funeral of Andrew Carnegie was held at Shore Brook, his summer home in the Berkshires. There was a large crowd, but there were no pall bearers.

The service was as simple as were the tastes and habits of the man in life. One half of the sixty persons present were members of the household. The others were relatives of the deceased.

Referring to the Canadian casualties, the speaker said, according to figures recently published, the Canadian army suffered the loss of approximately 100,000 men and made the highest percentage of gains.

Another speaker was Major Harry Lethbridge, who declared for a middle course on the liquor question, neither too wet nor too dry.

Must Leave Dominion

Schoppelet Ordered Deported By the Immigration Board of Inquiry.

Winnipeg. — Oscar Schoppelet, president of an agricultural alien, alienated by the government, before the board of inquiry, must leave Canada.

The Manitoba court of appeal refused to grant an application made by counsel for Schoppelet's behalf that the immigration board of inquiry be quashed.

The high court in its written judgment found that the order for Schoppelet's deportation was based on a ground first, that he had come to Canada with the intent to remain, and secondly, that he had remained there without leave of absence.

It was also held that he had refused to answer certain questions put to him by officials. Their lordships pointed out that under section 23 of the immigration act they had no jurisdiction to interfere.

HAD DYSENTERY

Bowels Moved as Big Times a Day.

Dysentery manifests itself with varying degrees of intensity, but in severe attacks the stools are almost completely passed by some amount of diarrhoea, which gradually increases until it reaches a maximum, bringing pain in the abdomen. The discharges from the bowels succeed each other rapidly, and the matter passed from the bowels, which at first resemble those of diarrhoea, become watery, and the matter is soon passed from the bowels, so that it is a severe case has been oblique in England since St. Swithin's Day.

"The All-Highest War Lord" was by military law responsible for the atrocious policy followed by his troops in Belgium and Northern France, even if, to remove any doubt, he had written a letter to the late Francis Joseph, "A son is lost, but everything must be given to fire and sword; men, women and children must be slaughtered."

For the momentous doctrine that war is an absolute is inviolate in Germany, it is a severe case has been oblique in England since St. Swithin's Day.

Will Not Act

District Branches Refused to Issue Ballots For Referendum.

London.—Direct action proposed by British Labor's triple alliance in the form of a general strike against salaried workers, is said by the Evening News to have been killed by the refusal of the transport workers' federation to take part in it. The newspaper said the federation had decided to have nothing to do with the movement and that its direct branches had refused to issue ballots for the referendum.

The triple alliance is composed of the transport workers' federation and miners. The alliance on July 23 decided to take part in it of its members in Labor's political demands, including the release of Russian intervention, the release of conscientious objectors and the use of the military in labor disputes.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1919

The majority of the people of the United States have at last regained their sanity on the so-called "daylight saving." On Tuesday last the House of Representatives by a large majority to repeal the daylight saving law, over President Wilson's veto, and on Wednesday the Senate concurred by a like majority. It had been a mystery to the people of many countries otherwise could fool themselves into thinking the world was on the whole making any material gain by putting one hour back in the right time. Canada was ready to abandon "daylight saving" a year earlier than the United States, but it has to some extent been forced upon us by year round use of U. S. railroads, thus giving us that abomination, two kinds of time-standard time and railroad time. This has resulted in great inconvenience to everybody and much loss to many. Nearly all will be glad for the return to sanity.

A train load of cattle containing over 700 head was shipped last Monday to Chicago by F. Downs. Owing to illness, Mr. Downs was unable to attend to the loading and this was taken in hand by L. C. Evans who also accompanied the train to Chicago. Alex Bell, Grant Clark, Frank Glatt and Clarence Jacobs took charge of the cattle en route. Mr. Evans left on Friday evening by passenger train. The price paid for the cattle ranged from $8 to 10 cents a pound. It is difficult to understand why any of these ranchers would sell cattle for less than $5 per cent per pound. The worth alone at that time was worth $300.00. Even after paying an advance of from 3 to 5 cents per pound, Mr. Downs received a profit of 20 per cent on his deal. Mr. Downs has evidently made a good move, and the ranchers will profit if they can get 5 cents per pound. He expects to return about three weeks and will make another shipment. Those having cattle to sell will do well to avail the results of this deal. There is no necessity for anyone to give their cattle away.

C. P. R. OFFERS CUP FOR HARD SPRING WHEAT

In connection with the International Soil Products Exposition which will be held at Kansas City, Mo., September 24th to October 4th, the Department of Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway is offering a silver cup for the value of $600 for the best half bushel of hard spring wheat exhibited. It is hoped that every farmer in Alberta who has a good sample of wheat this year will submit it for this competition. Those competing for this cup will automatically become competitors for the prizes offered at the International Farm Congress. The classes will include first, second and third prize. In addition they have a chance of winning the sweepstakes for wheat. The winning sample of wheat will be usually the best exhibit of wheat shown at the exposition and thus wins the sweepstakes prize, and the exhibits from the Canadian growers will be all before them in this class. Last year the C. P. R. cup, the sweepstakes for wheat and the first prize for hard spring wheat were won by Seager Wheat of Roseau, Minn. with a half bushel of High River, Alberta, a good second. No cup was offered by the C. P. R. in 1917, but the sweepstakes for wheat and first prize for hard spring wheat was won by Samuel Larcombe of Birtle, Manitoba, in that year.

In addition to the above, other valuable prizes will be offered for late varieties of field crops. Late varieties from the Western Canada have carried away a lion's share of these prizes, and no doubt their experts will be competitors again this year. An official program of the exposition is now ready, and a copy can no doubt be obtained by writing to the secretary of the International Farm Congress at Kansas City, Mo.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS IN STOCK CASES

Two cases of considerable interest to stockmen, having to do with the administration of grazing privileges in the Dominion Forest Reserve, were tried on Monday last, the 18th instant, before Inspector R. E. Tucker, J. P., at the R. N. W. M. P. Barracks, Macleod, in which John S. Nelson, of Medicine Hat, was charged with the infringement of Sections 2 and 48 of the Regulations for Dominion Forest Reserves.

These Regulations have the force of statute by reason of the provisions of the Dominion Forest Reserves and Parks Act. Section 2 prohibits, among other things, the allowing of stock to enter upon or to drift through Dominion Forest Reserves without a permit. Mr. Nelson was charged with having allowed his stock to enter upon the Crown land in the Crosscut Forest Reserve, particularly on Beaver Creek and Heath Creek, between the months of September, 1918 and May, 1919. Mr. Nelson, who was not represented by counsel, admitted "not guilty" but the evidence of two of the officials of the Forestry Branch, Ranger H. Bremner and Ranger G. L. Johnson, proved that the accused's cattle had been allowed to run in large numbers over this part of the Reserve continuously during the period mentioned. The accused admitted that his cattle were trespassing and calling upon him to have same removed, but without results.

The accused, on cross-examination, during the prosecution's witnessed seemed to rely on two points, first, that no one had told him to drive these cattle into the Reserve or to be herding them within the Reserve, and second, that there was no fence or barrier erected by the Government to prevent his cattle from entering upon the Reserve or from passing from certain held under grazing leases with the boundary of the Reserve, onto the other parts of the Reserve. It was brought out upon the evidence of Mr. H. E. Finlayson, the Inspector of Forests for Alberta, that there is nothing in the Dominion Forest Reserves Act or in the Regulations thereunder requiring the Government to erect such a fence or barrier. Mr. Nelson gave evidence on his own behalf that if his cattle grazed on the Reserve they got there through drifting before such a fence or barrier was erected, and that he had no option on his part, although he admitted that he had found his cattle on the Reserve and on occasions had driven them off. After hearing the evidence of Mr. Finlayson, the court held that he had no option but to find the accused guilty in that the section in question does not apply exclusively when the cattle are being driven, and that therefore it is sufficient to constitute an infringement of the Regulations if the owner allows them to enter upon the Reserve.

The court, however, considered the fact that the accused can a large number to cattle last winter, and did not have sufficient land of his own to take care of them, and that there was no such excuse for the cattle getting upon the grazing lands within the Reserve. On the other hand it was obviously unfair to fine him for failing to obtain grazing permits from the Department of the Interior to have the grazing to which they became entitled, especially a trespasser, a view of the very serious penalties which followed the conviction. The Justice placed the fine at a smaller figure than he otherwise would have done, $200.00. The total costs on this charge totalled $80.55.

Following his conviction under section 2, Mr. Nelson was then charged with violation of Section 48 which provides that no carcass or animal, dead or alive, may be removed or buried by the owner in accordance with the regulations of the Forestry Branch. Messrs. Smith and Askey, who appeared on behalf of the Forestry Branch, testified that on the 10th of June, last in a very short distance along the waters of Beaver Creek, in the Forest Reserve, they had counted six carcasses of animals which they positively identified as having belonged to accused, one being actually in the water of the stream and all others on banks of the stream. A few days later Forest Supervisor R. M. Brown of Pincher Creek notified Nelson that he must remove or bury these carcasses within ten days, on the 11th of July, witness Askey went over the same ground and found the same carcasses lying in exactly the same positions as when he was given the notice above. The accused, satisfying on his own behalf, admitted receiving the notice, but claimed that he complied therewith within the time limit, but had actually removed seven carcasses which he found along the waters of Beaver Creek, to a distance sufficient in his opinion to avoid any possible charge of violation of the regulations. The court accepted Mr. Nelson's evidence that he had removed certain carcasses, but at the same time was obliged to hold back those which were either carcasses left in the stream which easily encouraged human life as testified by the witnesses for the accused, and spoke very severely of the lack of care on the part of the accused in not having a state of affairs to exist. Owing to the doubt in his mind as to whether the carcasses not removed by Nelson were sufficiently separated from the ones he had removed, the Inspector Tucker refrained from imposing the maximum penalty of $100.00 as he otherwise would have done. On this charge the accused was convicted and fined $15.00 and costs, totaling $31.15.

Charles E. Adams, K. C., of Calgary, appeared on behalf of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior.

This case is of particular interest to ranchers in view of the fact that there seems to have been somewhat wide-spread opinion that the Canadian Government, in order to protect itself, do require such action. It is understood that there are other cases which may be taken up with a view of enforcing the Regulations. The Department of the Interior, in its defense, stated that the main object for such prosecutions is to protect persons securing grazing permits in the regular way in the privileges for which they apply and pay.

Girls! Women! Do Your Looks Satisfy You?

Is your color fresh and rosy? Does the glow of health shine out in your cheeks? Do your eyes glint with health, or are they dull, dark, circled and tired?

Alas—your bloodless face indicates trouble. Your watery blood messages grow fainter every day. When you are tiring, cleansing agents like Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean out the surplus of bile that makes your skin pale and listless, give you new life and the stomach, brace up digestion and make you feel a sufficient food to renew your strength.

Good blood always means more strength and vigor—and why not Hamilton's Pills? They so soon build up weak, thin folks.

You will improve and that half dead, lazy feeling will depart, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best tonic for every ailing organ in the body.

Ask your friends, your neighbors—most anyone can tell you the enormous good done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, but beware of any substitute.

She had caught sight of him, say her no to any man, she can take care, but as he poured forth these plain passionate words she found herself enveloped in a flame that found no expression in speech. She had no words. She was glad when he went on.

"I know I'm only a boy, an' you're only a girl. That's why I don't ask no pledge. I leave you free, only I want you to stay true unto me, I have my eyes on you."

She tried to pull herself together. "You know I've had a good time with you, Dave," she said, "and I've gone with you everywhere, like I would not have gone with any other boy. I never told you, and you didn't let you talk about things. I never talked about before, and I believe you're true and clean, and—"

"Yes," he said. "What's your answer?"

"I know you're true and clean," she repeated. "Come to me-like that—when I'm a woman and you're a man, and then—I'm well known."

He was tall and straight, and his shadow cast across her face, as though even the moonlight could not see "Renee," he said, "kiss me."

For one moment she thought of her mother. She knew she stood at the parting of the ways; that all life for her was being moulded, in that moment. Then she put both her arms about his neck and drew his lips to hers.

CHAPTER FOUR

Dave's opportunity came sooner than he expected. After the departure of the Hardys at the old ranch were, as both father and son had predicted, very different. They found themselves on a sort of good behavior, a little less bold, a little less happily, excited in each other grave suspicions as to purpose. Between these two men rude courtesies, or considerations of any kind had been so long forgotten that it seemed to restrain them rather in a state of estrangement more dangerous than the old open hostility. The tension steadily increased, and both looked forward to the moment when something would give way.

For several weeks the old man remained entirely sober, but the call of the appetites in him grew more and more insatiable as the days went by, and at last came the morning when Dave had ridden to town for the means needed no second guess; the craving had become irresistible and his father had ridden to town for the means to satisfy it. The passing days did not bring him back, but this occasioned no anxiety to Dave. He had a carouse his father frequently remained away for weeks at a stretch, and at such times it was Dave's custom to visit the boys on a ranch dozen miles over the footfalls to which he paused before a window a sister, and what was more natural than that Dave should drown his loneliness in such company?

The old man did not ride southward over the hills. He moved around the ranch buildings, sat moodily by the little stream, casting pebbles in the water, rode over the old trails on which she had so often been his companion. The scene was bright with all the glow of the foothill September; the silver dome of heaven, cloudless morning and noon, ripened with the dying day and scarlet gold on which floated clouds of all degree; breeders, buyers, traders, owners and wage-earners, a half-dozen of townspersons and others past distinction, in the phase of the cattle business. The room was strong with smoke and language, and exhortation and good-natured jests which the carnival of the house was the half-furnished appropriate accompaniment. Through the smoke he could see another room farther back, in which were a number of pool tables, and the general hubbub of a social evening, occasional awakening raps of pneumonia betokened deep interest in the game, and he allowed himself to drift in that direction. Soon he was in a group watching a hand-to-hand struggle doing a sort of slight-of-hand trick with three cards on a table.

"Smooth guy," that said some one at his side. The remark was evidently intended for Dave, and he turned to find the speaker, a man somewhat smaller than Dave, well dressed in town clothes; with a rather puffy face and gold-filled tooth from which a corner had been broken as though it had been gnawed. He was slowly and methodically, and still with that strange sensation of emptiness, he saddled his own horse and set out for the town.

After the last debts had been paid to the old rancher Dave set about at once to wind up his affairs, and it was not until then that he discovered how deeply he had been involved.

The selling of the cattle and the various effects realized only enough to discharge the liabilities, and when that had been done Dave found himself with a considerable sum of money, a saddle and a bridle, a pack saddle and revolver. He rode his horse to town, carrying a few articles of wear with him. It was only after riding half a mile that he found a place to part with his companions.

At the last miles into town were ridden slowly, with the boy frequently leaning forward and stroking the horse's neck and ears.

"It's a smooth guy," he said, and the stranger was inclined to be friendly, he continued, "What's the idea?"

The stranger nudged him gently. "Come out of the bunch," he said, in a low voice. When they had moved a little apart he turned to him in confidence. "He has a bad heart, and I think there are three cards which brings him in the easy coin. He's smooth as grease, but the thing's simple. Oh, it's awful, like out on the old range. An' I got a bigger job now than ever you arn't. I'm stoned in on the town, I'm afraid, in St. Paul, where was I going to go—it but seems to get 'em here. Now you seem to watch him for a minute," and they watched through an opening in the crowd, he said, "and then he takes off his coat, and takes off his shirt, and then he takes off his pants, and then he takes off his red vest and a black. He passed them about rapidly over the table, occasionally turning his hand sideways so that the on-lookers could see the position of the cards. Then when he suddenly threw them face down on the table, each card by itself."

In the event he had walked the streets of the little cow-town. It was not altogether new to him, but he had frequently visited it for business or pleasure, but he had never experienced his night in that town. He had always been in the town as a visitor; his rooms were still in the ranch; he could afford to notice the ways of the town, the smile to blind him, the smile to catch him.

But now he was throwing his lot with the town; he was going to be one of it, and it stretched no arms of welcome to him. It smothered him with its indifference. He became aware again that the gathering, twilight in the great hills had never seemed so vague and empty as the last night of this strange town. He realized that he had come to stay, and he would be one of her.

He began to wonder whether he really had a friend at all; whether the girl would not discount him when he told her of his misfortune.

"I'll buy him back in the morning," he said, "in hell, he's in a such a goddam fool's errand."

The resolution was not far with Slopey—gradually restored his cheerfulness, and he walked slowly, back to the hotel, looking in at many window displays as he went on. Half

British Merchants In Trade Campaign

Necessary in Interests of Country to Develop Its Export Trade.

The first real hint of what the British Government is doing to help us to develop our trade was contained in a Board of Trade appeal for a big campaign by British merchants to capture the markets of Central Europe. Now that our men have been raised, board points out, there must be more keen competition to the world and it may be expected that there will be a considerable demand in Germany for British goods.

"It is a part of the policy of His Majesty's Government to discourage British traders from competing in this market," the appeal says.

"It is necessary in the interests of our country to encourage our export trade to the fullest possible extent and in every direction, and it is very desirable that British traders should attain every make effort to support our foreign trade."

The president of the National Union of Manufacturers stated in an interview: "The decision raises a very important question which by itself is a difficult one without finding a solution for it. The question is, how is Germany going to pay?"

She can only pay in gold, in securities or manufactured goods.

The first two are limited heavily by monetary and fiscal conditions of import, we cannot accept," the decision has evidently come to view in some of our allies' determination to trade with Germany irrespective of our own wishes and interests.

Another point is whether in our efforts to get the trade of Central Europe we are not to give priority to the reparation of some of our Allies who are greatly in debt for manufactured articles. If we do not neglect these Allies the Central European markets will be captured before we are ready for the assault. A big effort to increase exports to Germany will be made to secure a better future for living further in Britain unless production here is greatly increased and Germany gets our surplus."

"The whole situation will depend upon the government making up its mind what is to be the nation's policy with regard to the imports into England from the rest of the world."

Patriotic Canada

Has Asked for Comparatively Little Financial Help.

A striking feature of the statement of the war debt of Canada is the large amount held by Canadians. Other countries have been asked by the Dominions to compete with it in the matter of war debts. The Canadian son and grandson of the ruling chief of Baldwin presented ancient swords to the King and conveyed from their chief tokens of esteem, friendship and congratulation on his restoration to health. The King said "How good you are, Sirs!" and handed his old Slopey back again. He suddenly wanted him with a terrible longing; wanted him more than anything else in the world. For a while he had no time for the girl, and his home-sickness centred about the least which had been so long his companion and servant and friend.

Son and Grandson of Chief of Baldwin Conveyed Tokens.

LONDON.—A picturesque scene was witnessed at the Buckingham Palace yesterday when the son and grandson of the ruling chief of Baldwin presented ancient swords to the King and conveyed from their chief tokens of esteem, friendship and congratulation on his restoration to health. The King said "How good you are, Sirs!" and handed his old Slopey back again. He suddenly wanted him with a terrible longing; wanted him more than anything else in the world. ### Prisoners Earning Four Cents An Hour

Germans Are Described As Good Workers Along Agricultural Lines.

British plans for repatriation of German prisoners of war are complete, according to a wire despatch from London. The plans of the Germans are subject to arrangement to be made by the joint prisoners' committee to meet in Paris.

Up to July 23, prisoners held in Great Britain numbered 100,000. These included 178 naval airmen, 2,908 sailors, 14 naval airmen and 4,016 civilian aliens. The majority of the sick and badly wounded and those suffering from shell-shock were sent home.

Several hospitals containing the last of the cases have recently been cleared. Among those on board was Capt. Karl von Mueller, commander of the cruiser Admiral Hipper, who had been held prior to answer to the sinking of the German fleet at Scapa Flow, and a son of Admiral von Tirpitz.

The prisoners are scattered throughout the empire with the exception of Ireland. They are kept in internment and work camps. Twenty-six thousand of them are engaged in agricultural pursuits, and 7,000 are employed by the military authorities in digging trenches mainly on the coast roads.

They are paid up to two-pence an hour, the same as British soldiers. The prisoners are scattered throughout the empire with the exception of Ireland. They are kept in internment and work camps. There are no members of Zeppelin crews among the hostages, as they were all repatriated through exchanges during the war.

Friendly Restoring Railways

About 10 Per Cent. Still Remain To Be Rehabilitated.

Paris.—The minister of public works has sent a report to the president of the Republic on the work of reconstruction and rehabilitation carried on in the devastated regions and the rural areas.

The report details the measures adopted to repair railroads, highways and other means of communication in the devastated departments. In this document it is stated that only twenty-two kilometers of permanent track will require to be put into shape out of a total of 1,500 kilometers, or more than 10 million francs, to be expended on the traffic of the armistice. On the eastern railway system about 10 per cent. of the railway lines destroyed still remain to be rebuilt. The repair and reconstruction of the highways and rural roads has been carried on at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream.

Under the ministry of agriculture, the reconstruction of the rural areas is progressing well. The ministry of agriculture has been given the task of preparing the land for sowing and of establishing new villages.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and mix it with a pint of water. Mix up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it freely into the face, neck, arms and hands.

Sir John Hunter Says Contractors Paid Puffed Roll.

London.—Sir John Hunter, director of factory construction and iron and steel production under the ministry of munitions, gave evidence yesterday before an investigating committee on national expenditures, said that in the creation of works for the air ministry, no man employed had been paid more than 10 francs per day, or 200 francs for 20 working hours.

A Word to Farmers

I have been very fortunate in being appointed as Local Appraiser of one of the largest and most reliable Mortgage Companies in Canada. This company is reasonable in its charges in making loans. The loans are all made from the Calgary office, and therefore can assure you of prompt service.

Should any of you find it necessary to secure money with which to carry on your farming operations, please call on me and talk the matter over.

Very sincerely yours,
